

Here is an old gold and silver mine sitting on the side of a mountain. Note the rubble pile which formed a wedge shaped as the debris slid down the face of the mountain.

This is the mining building where the cable system terminated for processing the gold and silver

