

US NAVY SH-2 SEASPRITE

The SH-2 Seasprite was designed and built by the Kaman Aircraft Corporation and introduced into service with the US Navy in 1962 for both utility and anti-submarine operations. The last Seasprite's were retired from active service in 1993.

This Seasprite is located at the Space Camp Air Museum in Huntsville, Alabama.

